

Terri Howell is a retired elementary school teacher. A quilter of many years, she was becoming restless with all the rules of quilting and decided to branch out and try something new. Terri has developed her own, "no rules" style of quilting landscapes using a quilt as you go method. Over the past two years she has passed this skill on to many women and children and along with her friend and fellow quilter, Mary Spring was the recipient of a Pay it Forward grant from the district of a Muskoka to teach others basic sewing through landscape design. Terri has been taking painting lessons from Huntsville artist Janine Marson to further her skills using colour and value.

Terri will be offering her workshop with Mary Spring on Saturday March 19, from 9:30 to 4:30 at the Signal North Gallery, part of The Art Sampler Workshop Series. Space Limited. Go to www.huntsvilleartsociety.ca to register today.
